SUNDIPT—Fine Yellow—See Page 19.

You Will Be Welcome at Longfield!

BECAUSE many iris lovers find even the best catalog descriptions inadequate, a growing number of them like to see large collections before they make up their buying lists.

To these, and to all other flower lovers, we extend a cordial invitation to visit the Longfield Iris Farm in the blooming season. Here you will find acres of bloom. You may examine at your leisure the old and new varieties you have read about. Thus you will be able to make your selections most satisfactorily.

The Iris generally reach their blooming height around June 1st, depending on season. Then you will see some Hemerocallis in bloom, as well as the earlier Peonies.

Bluffton is 25 miles south of Fort Wayne, easily reached from any direction by paved roads. The garden is at the west end of Market Street. If no attendant is there when you arrive, call at 419 West Market Street and a guide will be provided.

MARY WILLIAMSON.

Cook Originations

Captain Wells (Cook No. 14339, 1941). A deep glossy maroon purple of beauty and distinct character. A large, rich solidly colored self. Neat and finished in appearance, owing to the almost entire absence of haft markings, and to the subdued yellow of the beard; there is a shine to the whole flower that renders the rich color live and bright. Of splendid form and substance, the standards held together at all times, the falls flaring stiffly. Altogether, one of the finest dark Irises we have grown or seen.

Detail: S. conic domed, Dark Vinaceous Purple; F. flaring, Dahlia Carmine; beard, Aniline Yellow. Flowers 5 inches x 5 inches, the S. and F. each 2½ inches wide. Shape of flower good, substance heavy, texture smooth and lustrous. Stem 38 inches, low and widely branched, bearing nine flowers. Plant of strong growth, free and dependable in bloom. Midseason to late.

Copper Rose (Cook No. 939, 1941). A smooth blending of old rose, tan and copper, brightened by a glow of golden yellow at center of flower. The best out of three or four selected seedlings of this coppery pale red coloration, declared by competent judges to be distinct from the copper blends of other breeders. Flower slightly bicolor; shape and substance good. Medium large in size, the wide standards and falls displaying the rich, bright coloring to splendid advantage.

Detail: S. arching, between Buff Pink and Japan Rose; F. flaring, between Terra Cotta and Ocher Red; crests Honey Yellow; beards Cadmium Yellow. Flowers 4½ inches high, 5 inches wide; standards 2¾ inches, falls 2½ inches wide. Stem 38 inches, branched at middle or below, bearing nine flowers. Midseason. Plant of sturdy growth, very floriferous.

Majenica (Cook No. 539, 1941). Wide-petalled blend, pinkish with tinge of salmon, standards and falls contributing equally to this effect. Clear and bright in coloring, a pleasing flower in every way. Flowers large, of good full form, smooth texture, and firm, lasting substance.

Detail: S. domed, Pinkish Buff, strongly flushed Vinaceous; F. flaring, Light Corinthian Red with undertone of Pinkish Buff; crests Pinard Yellow; beards Light Cadmium. Flowers 5 inches x 5 inches, the S. and F. each 2½ inches wide. Stem 36 inches, branched from middle up, bearing nine flowers. Early midseason. Of good growing and flowering habits.

One each of the above three Cook originations; Captain Wells, Copper Rose, and Majenica for $45.00.

Lancaster (Cook No. 5437, 1940). A handsome flower of lustrous warm old rose expressing great strength and character. Distinct from the "pink" or "rose" Iris by its very wide segments, especially the wide falls with a broad haft, and by its heavy substance. As an individual flower it makes an excellent show Iris, as a mass its floriferousness and coloring cannot be excelled.

Detail: S. conic arched, Vinaceous, brightened by undertone of Buff Pink and becoming Buff Pink at base; F. flaring, Deep Vinaceous, shading to Buff Pink at margin; crests Antimony Yellow; Beard, Light Cadmium. Flowers, large 5 inches x 5 inches, the S. and F. each 2¾ inches wide. Stems 36 inches tall, branched at middle or below, and bearing nine flowers. Splendid form, excellent substance. Fragrant. Midseason to late. $20.00

1941 Williamson Origination

Table Iris

Daystar (Wmsn. 1941). A daintily little white Iris with a faint creamy tint and a brilliant Cadmium Orange beard. The color on the haft which starts above the tip of the beard is Light Cadmium. The small flowers are 2½ inches x 2¼ inches on slender wiry stems which are a little taller than Pewee. Distinct from Pewee which is entirely white by its very bright orange beard and yellow haft. Of heavier and more lustrous texture than Pewee.

Brief Directions for Planting and Caring for Bearded Iris

Sweet, well-drained soil, free of roots of other plants, preferably with some lime, and all the sunshine possible. No fresh manure, no tree leaves; clean, shallow cultivation and no litter or mulch about the plants from early spring until the ground freezes in the fall. A light winter mulch of corn fodder or straw, brought up about the plants, rather than thrown on them, is beneficial but is not necessary except for plants recently planted and not well established. Bonemeal is a satisfactory fertilizer. Well rotted manure may be used if well spaded under, so there is no humus in contact with the rhizomes. Wood ashes may be used freely.

A plant ready for planting consists of 2 essential parts—the leaves and the rhizome (often mistakenly called bulb). Moderate drying does not injure the leaves or rhizomes. If the soil is dry at planting time, fill the trench or hole with water and after it has soaked into the ground, spread the roots over the moist surface and draw soil over them, tramping it down firmly and covering with loose soil. The rhizome should be just below or at the surface and should be held firmly in place if the soil has been properly packed over the roots.

Rarely, due to high temperatures and humidity, slimy bacterial decay will attack the leaves and rhizomes of plants in transit. When such plants are received wipe off all the moist and decayed parts with a rag or ball of paper or excelsior, and dust the base of the leaves and the rhizome thoroughly with sulphur, powdered gypsum or plaster of paris. Plant at once with the upper surface of the rhizome exposed to sun and air. Keep plant under observation to see disease is checked. If the disease progresses, treat as directed for rhizome rot.

Rhizome Rot. The name is descriptive. Give a gentle pull to adjacent leaves to see if the disease has spread beyond the area you have detected. Scrape out all disease and softened tissue and pack the cavity with powdered gypsum. Scatter gypsum on the ground about the diseased area until the surface is white. Examine the plant from day to day to see if the disease is checked.

Mustard Seed Fungus. Work gypsum into the soil to the depth of half an inch and scatter on the surface until it is white.

Root Borer. (1) Clean the garden thoroughly of all litter and old Iris leaves as early in the spring as possible. Burn this litter. (2) After vigorous leaf growth is established in the spring watch for evidence of borer attacks and cut off the leaves below the point where the borer is working; drop the leaves in a tight bottomed basket or bucket and burn them, or bury them in a well-packed grave. (3) Dig plants immediately after flowering, trim leaves down to a 3-6 inch fan, burn or bury all leaves and discarded bits of rhizomes. When trimming plants look carefully for borers. Lay plants on cool (earthen or cement) floor and keep moist (cover with moist burlaps, old carpet or straw) for about 48 hours. Examine again for borers and replant.

A "self" is an Iris with standards and falls the same color.

A "bicolor" is an Iris with standards lighter color than the falls.

A "neglecta" is a purple bicolor.

A "plicata" is an Iris with petals sanded, veined or otherwise marked with a color darker than the ground color.

A "variegata" is an Iris with standards of yellow, gold or orange and falls heavily veined a darker color or completely of a darker color.

An "amoena" is an Iris with white standards and colored falls, sometimes veined or margined white.

Names of colors in capitals are those of Ridgeway's Color Standards and Nomenclature. It is unfortunate that copies of this work are limited but until we have a more widely distributed standard the conscientious describer can do no better than follow the only definite and reliable standard available. The Ridgeway names in many instances are color names in common usage and in most cases they can be fairly interpreted even by those not acquainted with the color charts.

Hemerocallis -- Daylilies

With the rapid development and improvement in Hemerocallis, we are especially glad to be able to offer you this list of fine varieties. No garden is complete without a few of them.
